CURRENT AND PREVIOUS POSITIONS

University of Oslo, Centre for Technology, Innovation and Culture (TIK)

- 2025- Associate Professor in Science and Technology Studies
The position as associate professor includes research, teaching and supervisory duties within the field of Science and Technology Studies (STS) at the TIK Centre. In addition to initiating my own research, I participate in developing the Centre’s academic profile and hold the primary responsibility for the Centre’s master-level teaching in STS (introductory module and advanced course).
- 2023-2025: Postdoctoral research fellow
The postdoctoral project, entitled “The futures of oil”, focused on the technologies of forecasting and modelling that are involved in making future oil extraction available to government control and political intervention. The position also included teaching and supervision of graduate students.

Norwegian Ministry for Climate and Environment

2022-2023: Senior adviser (part-time position)
Short-term engagement as part of the secretariat for a government-appointed expert commission on future Norwegian climate policy. The position included drafting and coordinating the commission's report (presented to the Minister of climate and environment as NOU 2023: 25), as well as analysis, procurement of commissioned research, strategy development, and public outreach activities.

CICERO Centre for International Climate Research, Oslo

2024- Affiliate senior researcher (in combination with University position)
Research and project development related to Norwegian climate policy, the politics of expertise in climate governance, and the role of financial institutions in the energy transition.

2022-2023 Senior researcher
2016-2022 Researcher
Research and commissioned analysis on climate policy and politics at the international level and in the Nordic countries. Particular emphasis on the use of scientific knowledge, the role of the IPCC, and the intersection of oil and climate policymaking. Also responsibilities in project development and acquisition, including developing applications to the Research Council of Norway. Regular presentations for media and policymakers.

Rainforest Foundation Norway (RFN)

2013-2015 Senior adviser
Responsible for RFN's work on forest policy in the UN climate change negotiations, and contributing to policy work at other levels such as The World Bank, DR Congo, Indonesia, and Norway. Coordination with international networks of NGOs, academic expertise and Indigenous Peoples' organizations, media work and strategy development.
